

Catch of the Day

Issue 3, Summer 2015

Canadian Fisheries
Research Network

Réseau canadien de
recherche sur la pêche

Welcome to the third edition of Catch of the Day, featuring the latest news from the CFRN! This issue brings exciting news from our students, an interview with CFRN from an international symposium, and links to recent Network reports. Read on for all this and more...

News

Annual General Meeting News

CFRN 4th AGM report available online

Read the highlights from our 2014 meeting to gear up for our final meeting this fall.

Students host industry workshop

University of British Columbia students, Sarah Hawkshaw and Danielle Edwards, organize an industry workshop for their research on BC fisheries management.

By Sarah Hawkshaw

CFRN attends GAP2 International Symposium

CFRN Principal Investigator, Rob Stephenson, reflects on co-management in fisheries at the GAP2 International Symposium in Barcelona. Watch the video here.

Lobster Node research featured in Atlantic Fishermen magazine

Featured interview with Kevin Squires, fisherman and CFRN research associate, about the Lobster Node, the Network, and the importance of collaborating with industry partners for successful fisheries management.

By Kathy Johnson

Predator Pit Challenge workshop report available online

Read about CFRN's innovative student-led training workshop on proposal writing and development skills.

By Eric Angel and Susan Thompson

Student News

CFRN student employed by Marine Research Institute in Iceland

Congratulations to Gudjon Sigurdsson, PhD student at the University of New Brunswick, who accepted a position as a Fisheries Research Scientist with the Marine Research Institute in Iceland. Gudjon will be starting his new job in September.

CFRN student employed by Fisheries and Oceans Canada

Congratulations to Mike Hawkshaw, PhD student at the University of British Columbia, who is now working with the Department of Fisheries and Oceans' salmon stock assessment unit in New Westminster, BC.

Why are some lobster clutches abnormal?

Feng Tang discusses her research on the role of food and sperm limitation on spatial differences in American lobster in a guest post featured on the LFA27 Management Board website.

Lobster eggs, hatching time and larval drift

Erin Miller tests a temperature prediction model on berried female lobsters and finds surprising results. Check out her guest post on the LFA27 Management Board website.

Other News

Interactive report explores quota management system in BC's commercial fisheries

Ecotrust Canada and the T. Buck Suzuki Environmental Foundation release Caught Up in Catch Shares, a report detailing the economic, social, and cultural effects of privatizing Canada's public fisheries resources.

New website launched to promote East Cape Breton lobster

The LFA27 Management Board has launched Capebretonlobster.com to promote the industry and educate the public on the lobster fishery.

GAP2 Project comes to a close

After four years of participatory research, GAP2 wraps up operations across Europe. Project outputs and collaborative research tools are available on their website: <http://gap2.eu>.

---

For more CFRN news and to stay up to date on all of our activities, visit our website (<http://www.cfrn-rcrp.ca>), follow us on Twitter (@CFRN\_RCRP), and like us on Facebook (www.facebook.com/CanadianFisheries).